- Systematic torture, ethnic cleansing and execution-style killings carried out with the support and participation of the Myanmar military, state security forces and local government officials
- No one knows the exact numbers since no international media or human rights organizations are allowed to visit the area of the genocide.
- Victims report as high as 6,000 women raped, 20,000 people killed, 25,000 houses burned, and 100,000 in concentration camps.
- The recent genocidal campaigns against Rohingya muslims have been documented by UN and international human rights organizations
